VOLUNTEER

at the Museum of disABILITY History

“I had a few hours to spare. I gained the experience of a lifetime.”

Volunteer at the Museum of disABILITY History, a project of People Inc., and make a difference in people’s lives, including your own.

Do you have a passion for education and history that you would like to share with the community? Do you need satisfying work with an innovative agency that will allow you to use your talents to make a meaningful impact on people’s lives?

The Museum of disABILITY History is the only “brick and mortar” museum of its kind in the world and is looking to acquire volunteers for a variety of tasks—including, but not limited to:

- Answering research queries.
- Special event planning and assistance.
- Conducting outreach with local museums, historical societies and human service agencies.
- Researching and writing new entries for the Museum Blog.
- Scanning and cataloguing new museum acquisitions into PastPerfect software.
- “Museum Ambassadors” to promote exhibits, activities and events.

Our mission:

The Museum of disABILITY History advances the understanding, acceptance, and independence of people with disabilities. The Museum’s exhibits, collections, archives, and educational programs create awareness and a platform for dialogue and discovery.

Our vision:

The Museum seeks with, and on behalf of, individuals with developmental and other disabilities, a higher level of societal awareness and understanding, and a change in attitudes, perceptions, and actions that will result in people with disabilities having the greatest possible participation in their communities.
